The Administrative Office of the Court, in partnership with Eastern Kentucky University and Hallenross & Associates, is proud to announce a new training initiative designed to prepare interpreters for the RID Specialist Certificate: Legal (SC:L) Examination. The project is the next phase in the ongoing efforts of the AOC to prepare sign language interpreters to work for the Kentucky Court of Justice (KCOJ) which began in 2009. The project will consist of two tracks, consistent with the SC:L test structure.

SC:L Written Test

The course is designed to offer an indebt review of all content areas of the SC:L written test as published by the RID, with guided reading assignments and with specific focus pertaining to each of the content area. Reading assignments will be selected from the recommended RID reference materials, as well as other relevant and applicable literature.

The course is expected to last seven months during which time the participants will meet at least once a month either face-to-face or online. Interpreters interested in preparing for the SC:L test are not required to be currently working for the AOC.

Participants will earn 2.0 Independent Study CEUs for each study group.
